Maine Family Literacy Initiative Grant Cycle

We are pleased to announce the 2011-2012 grant cycle of the Maine Family Literacy Initiative (MEFLI), a program of the Barbara Bush Foundation for Family Literacy designed to support the development of family literacy throughout the State of Maine. The individual components - adult literacy, early childhood literacy and intergenerational literacy - do not have to be new to your district or community, but you must demonstrate how they will be delivered in an integrated manner to achieve full benefit of the family literacy approach to literacy. For more information on this integrated approach, visit www.mainefamilyliteracy.com/resources and download Successful Strategies in Family Literacy. Collaboration with other agencies concerned with the well-being of Maine families is required.

Grants of up to $5,000 are provided to:

- explore the feasibility of family literacy programming in your community; and
- plan for future family literacy programming.

Grants of up to $25,000 are provided to:

- establish a family literacy program;
- allow for innovative projects within existing family literacy programs; or
- replicate successful family literacy programs with a new population or in a new location.

An eligible applicant must:

- be a local educational agency; correctional agency; community-based organization; non-profit 501© 3 organization; public institutions; or a consortium of these agencies;
- have been in existence for two or more years and must already provide one of the following educational components: adult literacy, early childhood education, or intergenerational literacy as part of its organizational mission, and
- have demonstrated fiscal accountability.

In addition, the applicant applying for a grant of up to $25,000 to provide family literacy programming must propose a program which includes:

- 1) literacy instruction for parents and/or primary care-givers, with a priority to serve those parents with less than an 8th grade reading level,
- 2) reading or pre-reading instruction for their children who are between ages birth and 8,
- 3) specific parent/child literacy activities during which parents and children learn and read together; and
- 4) measurement of adult's and children's progress using standardized assessments.

Applications

Applications must be received no later than 4:00 p.m. on April 15, 2011.
